for execution of the agreement and assigns responsibilities for furnishing support.

4. Type of support provided. The Department of Defense shall, consistent with Defense priorities, provide medical service, aircraft, and supplies, ordnance disposal, criminal investigation, counterintelligence personnel, motor vehicles, communications, and such other support as may be necessary to assist the United States Secret Service in the performance of its protective functions.

5. Travel and transportation allowances and other expenses. Military and civilian personnel assigned to duty in support of the United States Secret Service will be reimbursed in accordance with volumes 1 and 2, Joint Travel Regulations. Commanders should provide procuring and contracting service for transportation, meals, quarters, and other services required for personnel performing duty at or in the vicinity of their permanent duty stations, inasmuch as these persons are not ordinarily entitled to be paid per diem.

6. Command policy. Personnel assigned to support the United States Secret Service are subject to the operational control of the Director, United States Secret Service, or his authorized representative, for the duration of their assignment.

7. Approving authority. a. The approving authority for all routine requests for support is the Special Assistant to the Secretary and Deputy Secretary of Defense, or his authorized representative.

8. Procedures. a. Requests to support the protection of the President will be submitted by the Military Assistant to the President to the Special Assistant to the Secretary and Deputy Secretary of Defense. c. Requirements assigned to the Department of the Army will be passed by the Directorate of Military Support (DOMS) to the major Army command, Army Staff agency, or other appropriate command by telephone or electrical message. The Directorate of Military Support will assign each requirement a DA identification number. The command or agency assigned to provide the required support will, at the earliest convenient time, contact the designated Secret Service Agent and confirm details of the requirement. Commands or agencies providing support will not question the validity of approved requirements. Modification of a requirement to perform the mission more efficiently is authorized provided the designated Secret Service Agent agrees.
